Positive aspects of the submission

Hello Hashim, I hope you are doing well. Thank you for your submission.

Hashim, it's fantastic to see that you followed the instructions for this task accurately. Creating a React application using Create-React-App and running it locally is a crucial step in getting started with React development, and you nailed it.

I appreciate your attention to detail, especially in taking a screenshot of the React application running in the browser and compressing the project folder before submission. These small actions show that you're thorough and mindful of the submission requirements.

Overall, your completion of this task reflects your proficiency in setting up a basic React application environment and following submission guidelines. This is a positive sign of your ability to handle more complex React development tasks in the future.

Overall feedback

Keep up the great work, Hashim! If you continue to approach tasks with this level of accuracy and attention to detail, you'll make excellent progress as a React developer.
